

Division VIII of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations

Proposed Amendments and Additions to Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations Pertaining to the Child Development Permit

Initial Statement of Reasons

Problem Statement

In October 2020, California's Health and Human Services Agency released the Master Plan for Early Learning and Care, establishing a bold vision to ensure all children in the state thrive physically, emotionally, and educationally through access to high-quality early learning and care. Central to this vision is a well-prepared, diverse, and supported early childhood workforce. The Master Plan modernizes and aligns workforce qualifications across systems, with specific attention to updates to the Child Development Permit (CDP) Matrix.

In response, California has made major investments in Universal Transitional Kindergarten (UTK) and Universal Prekindergarten (UPK), expanding services beginning with four-year-olds and potentially serving younger children in the future. These transformative efforts underscore the urgent need for a well-qualified early childhood education (ECE) workforce that reflects the complexity and diversity of the children and families being served.

The existing Child Development Permit, established in 1993, no longer reflects the realities of today's early learning landscape. The field has advanced considerably in the areas of child development, dual language learning, inclusive practices, and culturally and linguistically responsive teaching. At the same time, increasing demand for competency-based preparation, workforce mobility, and alternative credentialing pathways necessitates a modernized system.

The revised CDP Matrix is designed to address these critical needs. It aims to:

- Align preparation and permit levels with current expectations for educator knowledge, practice, and leadership;
- Expand access through multiple, equitable entry points, including recognition of prior learning, supervised fieldwork alternatives, and credit-bearing and non-credit-bearing training;
- Support workforce retention and advancement through clear pathways, transparent requirements, and reduced duplication of effort.

A restructured CDP is essential to support the success of UPK implementation and ensure that every child has access to a high-quality early learning experience delivered by a competent educator.

Statement of Purpose

The CDP remains a foundational element of California's strategy to ensure a qualified early childhood workforce. As the state scales Universal Transitional Kindergarten (UTK), Universal Prekindergarten (UPK), and enhances its mixed-delivery early learning system, a clear, coherent, and inclusive permit structure is critical to meeting workforce goals. The revised CDP Matrix reflects a major step forward in meeting these goals. It responds to nearly three decades of evolution in the early childhood field and acknowledges the increased complexity of children's developmental needs, the importance of inclusive and equitable practice, and the growing diversity of California's early educator population.

The updated matrix introduces:

- Clearly defined and progressive permit levels aligned with field roles and responsibilities, from entry-level assistants to administrators;
- The potential for the integration of emphasis areas such as infant/toddler care, multilingual learners, and special education;
- Performance expectations and competency-based approaches that prioritize demonstrated educator skill and readiness;
- Flexibility for experienced educators to advance through alternative routes.

Importantly, the revised structure retains and honors the expertise of the existing workforce, including those in Head Start, California State Preschool Programs, private centers, and family childcare—by building on the current permit structure and offering opportunities to advance existing knowledge. This is achieved through mechanisms such as coursework and classroom practicum experience in addition to recognition of on-the-job experience, competency-based assessments, and clear alternative pathways. These mechanisms allow experienced educators to demonstrate mastery without repeating content they have already mastered in practice.

The structure also aligns with the Performance Expectations and the California Formative Teaching Performance Assessment (CalFTPA) model, reinforcing high standards of preparation and practice. At the same time, it has the potential to support diverse entry points, including apprenticeships, community-based training, and degree-bearing programs assuring access for new and continuing educators across varied settings and backgrounds.

By aligning permit requirements with educator competencies, licensure systems, and California's vision for quality and access, the revised CDP matrix serves as both a licensing tool and a strategic lever for systemwide quality improvement. It directly supports:

- Career mobility and wage advancement
- Coherence across licensing and preparation systems
- Increased supply of qualified educators for UPK
- Ongoing professional learning and permit renewal through meaningful, accessible pathways

The proposed regulations allow the current Child Development Permit and the Revised Child Development Matrix to live side by side and include a transition plan that sunsets the old regulations and proposes an effective date for the new requirements. The current regulations and the new regulations will need to operate concurrently during the transition from old to new requirements and standards for the Child Development Permit.

Ultimately, the revised CDP is not just a permit structure. It is a workforce development framework that positions early educators to succeed.

| Propose 80105.1(a): “Child Development Permit” means any permit issued by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing which authorizes service in the care, development and instruction of children in a childcare and development program or early learning child development program. Child Development Permits include currently issued authorizations provided in sections 80111.1, 80112.1, 80113.1, 80114.1 and 80115.1 and Child Development Permits issued under previous regulations or Children's Center Permits. | This section proposes an updated definition of Child Development Permit which substantially aligns with the current definition in 80105(a) and includes authorizations of Child Development Permits and the revised permit matrix that are required for state subsidized programs and are optional for non-subsidized programs. The proposed language also includes the term “early learning child development program” to align with current terminology. |

It supports workforce stability and continuity of services by enabling programs to meet staffing needs while ensuring permit holders are actively progressing toward full qualification in the public interest.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Propose 80105.1(j): “Employer Sponsorship” means a situation where an employer formally supports an individual’s pursuit of a professional credential, permit, or other authorization. This support is typically documented through an agreement or official verification provided to the credentialing or licensing agency.                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | This section proposes a definition of employer sponsorship as a formal, documented commitment by an employer to support an individual’s pursuit of a professional credential, permit, or other authorization. Recognizing employer sponsorship promotes shared accountability, strengthens workforce pathways, and supports timely completion of permit requirements in alignment with program and public workforce needs.                                                                                                                                                             |
| Propose 80105.1(k): “Supervised Clinical (field) Experience” means structured, hands-on professional practice completed in a real-world educational or care setting, in an early learning child development program, which is supervised by a person approved by a regionally accredited institution of higher education.                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | This section proposes a definition of supervised clinical (field) experience as a structured, hands-on component of preparation that ensures candidates apply theory to practice in authentic early learning settings under qualified supervision. Requiring oversight by an approved supervisor or mentor affiliated with a regionally accredited institution supports program quality, accountability, and the public interest in well-prepared early childhood professionals.                                                                                                       |
| Propose 80105.1(l): “Multiple Subject Clinical Practice”: means supervised field experiences, including student teaching. Candidates are provided supervision and evaluation from their program supervisor and assigned a specific mentor/master teacher. For the purpose of earning a Child Development Permit, clinical supervision must be completed in an early childhood education setting including Prekindergarten-grade 3 or have one year of full-time experience as a teacher of record in a Prekindergarten to 3rd grade classroom. | This section proposes a definition of multiple subject clinical practice as supervised field experiences, including student teaching, that provide candidates with structured mentorship, supervision, and evaluation to ensure readiness for professional practice. Limiting qualifying clinical supervision to early childhood education settings spanning prekindergarten through grade three or recognizing one year of full-time teaching experience as a teacher of record, ensures alignment with permit competencies and supports high-quality instruction for young learners. |

In addition, they are responsible for communicating with administration. It is important the Teacher of Record is accountable and guides those who support the classroom work to fulfill these areas.                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Propose 80105.1(n): Regional Occupational Program (ROP)” means a program designed to prepare secondary students or adults in one of a variety of occupations. When such training is in child development related occupations, it may be used to qualify an individual to obtain an Early Childhood Educator 1 Provisional Certification.                                                    | This section proposes a definition aligned with the current definition in 80105(m), as 80105 is proposed to be inoperative after June 30, 2028. This clarifies Regional Occupational Programs (ROP) is an alternative workforce preparation pathway that may qualify individuals for the Early Childhood Educator 1 Provisional Certification. Recognizing ROP preparation expands access to the early childhood profession, supports secondary and adult career pathways, and helps address workforce shortages while maintaining employer-supported supervision and public protection. |

The Commission has been engaged in a multi-year effort to address the state’s growing need for qualified Early Childhood educators, particularly in response to the expansion of Universal Transitional Kindergarten and evolving workforce demands. The Child Development Permit revised matrix is designed to update and strengthen preparation standards for educators working with children from birth through age eight, reflecting significant advancements in the field since the permit’s original structure was established in 1993. The revised permit matrix ensures that educators are equipped to meet the developmental, cultural, and linguistic needs of young children and their families across diverse early learning settings. The title of this section is amended to reflect the new title of the revised permit matrix. This change is necessary for continuity and consistency with how the Commission is identifying this level of permit. |

Requiring completion of a minimum of six semester units of ECE/CD coursework promotes instructional readiness, consistency in preparation, and protection of the educational welfare of young children.                                                                                                                                                            |
| Propose 80111.1(b)(2): completion of a program supported by local, federal, or Regional Occupational Center/Program (ROC/P) funds or Regional Occupational Program (ROP) in child development related occupations, and verification of employer sponsorship and employment in a supportive classroom role requiring this level of certification. | This section proposes verification of employer sponsorship and employment in a supportive classroom role to ensure the candidate is receiving appropriate supervision and support by the employing agency during the provisional certification period for those who have completed a ROP program.                                                                                                        |
| Propose 80111.1(c): Term and Renewal. The term and renewal for the Early Childhood Educator 1 and Early Childhood Educator 1 Provisional Certification shall be as follows:                                                                                                                                                                      | This section proposes clear terms and renewal requirements for the Early Childhood Educator 1 and Early Childhood Educator 1 Provisional Certification to ensure consistency, predictability, and accountability in credential validity. Defining term and renewal conditions supports ongoing professional growth, workforce stability, and alignment with regulatory and program quality expectations. |
| Propose 80111.1(c)(1): The Early Childhood Educator 1 shall be issued for five years and renewed for successive five-year periods upon submission of:                                                                                                                                                                                            | This section proposes a five-year validity period for the Early Childhood Educator 1 permit to provide stability and continuity in professional authorization. Allowing renewal for successive five-year periods upon submission of required documentation supports ongoing professional growth, regulatory consistency, and workforce retention while maintaining standards of best practice.           |
| Propose 80111.1(c)(1)(A): an application form for renewal as defined in Section 80001;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | This section proposes submission of an application to support administrative processing. Limiting the certification to a nonrenewable two-year term promotes timely progression to full certification and maintains program quality and accountability in the public interest.                                                                                                                              |
| Propose 80111.1(d): Authorization. The Early Childhood Educator 1 and Early Childhood Educator 1 Provisional Certification authorize the holder to assist in the care, development, and instruction of children in an early learning child development program under the guidance and the immediate supervision of an Early Childhood Educator 2 or higher-level permit holder. | This section proposes the scope of practice for ECE 1 permit holders, ensuring that they serve in a supportive instructional role with direct and immediate oversight by an ECE 2 Permit holder or higher. This section also clarifies that ECE 1 permit holders must work under the supervision of an ECE 2 or higher. Supervisors may include the teacher of record or individuals in mentoring, training, or supervisory roles, thereby ensuring appropriate guidance and quality assurance in early learning classrooms. |
| Amend 80112(a)(1)(A): Completion of twenty-four semester units of course work in early childhood education/child development, as defined in section 80105 , including at least one course in each of the following core areas: child/human growth and development; child, family and community, or child and family, relations;                                          | The proposed addition clarifies that the early childhood education or child development coursework requirements for the Child Development Teacher Permit align with the definition currently in place in section 80105. | Propose 80112.1(d): Authorization. The Early Childhood Educator 2 and Early Childhood Educator 2 Provisional Certification authorize the holder to be the teacher of record in an early learning child development program and provide guidance and supervision to an Early Childhood Educator 1 permit holder. Instructional services may include, but shall not be limited to, development and implementation of curriculum, learning goals and environments, observation and assessment, family engagement, and health, safety and nutrition. | This section proposes the scope of practice for ECE 2 Permit holders, as the teacher of record with direct and immediate oversight of the students. This section also clarifies that ECE 2 permit holders can provide guidance and supervision to an ECE 1 and is the official teacher of record for the classroom. Supervisors include ECE 3 and above, thereby ensuring appropriate guidance and quality assurance in early learning classrooms. |

| Propose 80114.1(a)(1) Completion of an associate degree or higher in early childhood education (ECE) or child development (CD), or a degree program, that includes at least 24 semester units in ECE/CD coursework as provided in section 80105.1, in addition to completion of all of the following:                                                                                            | This section proposes that candidates possess a strong academic foundation in early childhood education or child development that supports both instructional practice and professional leadership. Requiring an associate degree or higher, or a degree program with at least 24 semester units in ECE/CD coursework, promotes consistency in preparation, depth of knowledge, and alignment with standards.          |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(1)(A) : a minimum of two semester units of coursework in adult supervision;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | This section proposes that candidates develop foundational knowledge and skills in supervising adults, which is essential for effective leadership, collaboration, and mentoring within early learning environments. Requiring a minimum of two semester units in adult supervision coursework supports program quality, accountability, and effective management of staff.                                            |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(1)(B) : a minimum of three semester units of supervised clinical (field) experience within an ECE setting. These units may be included in the required 24 early childhood education or child development semester unit requirement. Coursework must include a minimum of 100 hours of clinical experience.                                                                    | This section proposes that candidates gain sufficient supervised, hands-on experience in an early childhood education setting to effectively apply theory to practice. Requiring a minimum of three semester units and at least 100 hours of supervised clinical experience promotes instructional competence, professional readiness, and the protection of children’s educational welfare.                           |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(1)(B)(1) : Individuals who are interested in upgrading their permit from a Child Development Teacher Permit, Master Teacher, Site Supervisor, or Program Director Permit and have successfully completed supervised clinical field experience with children ages 0-8, shall not be subject to the 100-hour requirement on their supervised clinical (field) experience units. | This section proposes prior supervised clinical field experience with children ages birth through eight as evidence of demonstrated competence for individuals upgrading an existing Child Development Permit. Exempting these candidates from the 100-hour requirement avoids unnecessary duplication of requirements while maintaining preparation standards and supporting efficient, equitable career advancement. |

| Propose 80114.1(a)(1)(C): a minimum of six semester units of coursework in ECE administration;                                                                                                                                                | This section proposes the requirement for coursework in early childhood education (ECE) administration, ensuring that candidates have foundational knowledge in program planning, staff supervision, and leadership within early learning settings.                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(1)(D): One year of full-time teaching experience (minimum of 3 hours per day) with children ages 0-8 years that can be verified by an employer as specified in section 80107; and                                          | This section proposes clear experience requirements to ensure candidates have recent and relevant practice working directly with young children. Requiring teaching experience promotes the development of professional competencies in instructional delivery, child development, and ensures candidates are prepared to support high-quality early learning environments.                                                      |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(1)(E): 100 days (minimum of 3 hours per day) of supervisory experience with children ages 0-8 years within the last four years.                                                                                            | This section proposes that candidates have recent, meaningful supervisory experience supporting instruction and care for children ages birth through eight. Requiring 100 days of verified supervisory experience promotes leadership competence, effective oversight of practice, and program quality.                                                                                                                          |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(2): Completion of an associate degree or higher in a subject area other than ECE/CD and at least 24 semester units in ECE/CD coursework as provided in section 80105.1, in addition to completion of all of the following: | This section proposes candidates with degrees in subject areas other than early childhood education or child development to qualify by demonstrating sufficient specialized preparation in ECE/CD. Requiring an associate degree or higher along with at least 24 semester units in ECE/CD coursework ensures instructional readiness, content expertise, and alignment with professional standards to supervise a site program. |
| Propose 80114.1(a)(2)(A): a minimum of two semester units of coursework in adult supervision;                                                                                                                                                 | This section proposes that candidates develop foundational knowledge and skills in supervising adults, which is essential for effective leadership, collaboration, and mentoring within early learning environments. Requiring a minimum of two semester units in adult supervision coursework supports program quality, accountability, and effective management of staff.                                                      |

| Propose 80115.1(c): Authorization. The Early Childhood Administrator 2 authorizes the holder to supervise an early learning and child development program operating at multiple sites in the care, development, and instruction of children and to provide guidance and supervision to Early Childhood Educator 1, Early Childhood Educator 2, Early Childhood Educator 3, and Early Childhood Administrator 1 staff. The holder may also serve as the coordinator of multiple sites in the areas of curriculum, staff development, and mentorship at the program level. Instructional services may include but shall not be limited to the development and implementation of curriculum, learning goals and environments, observation and assessment, family engagement, and health, safety and nutrition. | This section proposes the role of the Early Childhood Administrator 2 as providing multi-site leadership, supervision, and oversight of early learning and child development programs serving young children. Clearly establishing these responsibilities supports program coherence, staff development, regulatory compliance, and the consistent delivery of high-quality instructional and support services. |

Anticipated Benefits

The broad objectives of these proposed regulations are to ensure integrity, relevance, and high quality in the preparation and certification of the educators who serve all of California's diverse students. In addition, the Commission anticipates that the proposed amendments will develop, maintain, and promote high quality authentic, consistent educator preparation that supports the development and permitting of educators who have demonstrated the capacity to be effective practitioners. Furthermore, the proposed regulations will drive program quality and effectiveness for the preparation of the education workforce and are responsive to the needs of California's diverse student population.

The proposed transition approach is intended to allow individuals to complete coursework and requirements for their current pathway and apply for one of the existing permits while also providing opportunities for individuals seeking permits under the revised structure to also apply. The proposed transition period will allow preparation programs and educational partners to align coursework, advisement, professional growth systems, and clinical practice requirements with the revised Child Development Permit framework. Staff will continue to collaborate with partner agencies and educational partners throughout the implementation process.

Fiscal and Economic Impacts of the Regulation

Economic Impact Assessment

Creation or elimination of jobs within the state

The Commission concludes that it is unlikely that the proposed amendments will create jobs within the State of California. The proposed amendments pertain to the educators seeking a Child Development Permit. These amendments implement a more appropriate measure of the readiness of individuals already entering the education profession as California early childhood educators.

Creation of new businesses or the elimination of existing businesses within the state

The Commission concludes that it is unlikely that the proposed amendments will create any new businesses or eliminate any existing businesses within the State of California since the proposed amendments pertain to applicants seeking a Child Development Permit. In addition, the requirements outlined in this regulation can only be obtained through educational institutions such as California Community Colleges, State Universities, Universities of California, private four-year colleges and universities, or local education agencies, none of which meet the definition for a business.

Expansion of businesses currently doing business within the state

The Commission concludes that it is unlikely the proposed amendments would cause the expansion of businesses currently doing business within the State of California since the proposed amendments pertain to applicants seeking a Child Development Permit. While there may be some slight expansion of enrollment at institutions, due to providing prospective educators with multiple pathways to explore and access careers in education and advance in the profession, this is expected to be minimal. These amendments will not cause the elimination of existing businesses in California.

Cost impacts on a representative private person or business

The Commission is not aware of any cost impacts that a representative private person or business would necessarily incur in reasonable compliance with the proposed action.

Business Report

This proposal does not require a business report to be made.

Effect on Small Business

The proposed regulations will not have a significant adverse economic impact upon small businesses. The proposed regulations apply only to individuals seeking a permit to work in California's early childhood programs.

Significant Adverse Economic Impact on Business

The Commission has concluded there is no significant adverse impact on business. These regulations make clear the required components for candidates seeking a Child Development Permit.

Benefits of the regulation to the health and welfare of California residents, worker safety, and the state's environment

As stated above under Anticipated Benefits of the Proposed Regulations, the proposed regulations will benefit early childhood educators in their preparation, development, certification, and advancement, which will ultimately benefit California's children.

The proposed regulations are not expected to affect worker safety or the state's environment.

Reasonable Alternatives to the Regulations and the Department's Reasons for Rejecting Those Alternatives

Pursuant to Government Code Section 11346.9(a)(4), the Department has determined that no alternative considered by the agency would be more effective and less burdensome or costly to affected private persons than the adopted regulation or would be more cost effective to affected private persons and equally effective in implementing the statutory policy or other provision of law.

In accordance with Government Code Section 11346.5(a)(13), the Department must determine that no reasonable alternative is considered or that has otherwise been identified and brought to its attention would be more effective in carrying out the purpose for which the action is proposed, would be as effective and less burdensome to affected private persons than the proposed action, or would be more cost-effective to affected private persons and equally effective in implementing the statutory policy or other provision of law.

Pursuant to Government Code section 11346.9(a)(5), if anyone proposes an alternative that would lessen the adverse economic impact on small businesses, the final statement of reasons must include an explanation setting forth the Department's reasons for rejecting any proposed alternatives.
